County-Wide Property Value Assessment Increases $105 Million

For the first time in six years, total property value in Crow Wing County increased from 2013-2014, according to property assessment data released by Crow Wing County. Total assessed value of all properties in the County increased from $9.5 billion as of January 2, 2013, to $9.6 billion on January 2, 2014, an increase of $105 million or 1% according to the County Land Services Department. From 2008 to 2013, the county's estimated market value of properties had decreased by 20%, from $12 billion to $9.5 billion.

The County currently is mailing valuation and classification notices to all property owners identifying the assessed value of the property as of January 2, 2014, based on sales of comparable properties during the period October 2012 through September 2013.

Gary Griffin, Land Services Supervisor for property valuation and classification, noted that an overall increase in value does not mean all properties have increased in value. "Each property value is established based on actual sales that occurred in the marketplace. If comparable properties in a neighborhood during the study period sold for more, valuations will be higher; if comparable nearby properties sold for less, valuations go down," he noted.

He added that State Department of Revenue rules determine the process Counties must follow to determine assessed values. "State rules don't allow us to consider foreclosure sales, sales between relatives, government sales, or other sales that are not considered arm's length transactions. This limits the number of sales we can use for comparables in today's market," he stated. In addition, State rules require assessed values to fall within a statistical range which is between 90% and 105% of what comparable properties actually sold for. If the assessed value is outside that range, the State requires all property values to be raised or lowered accordingly.

Griffin also pointed out that higher or lower assessed values do not necessarily mean higher or lower taxes. "Government spending, at the county, city, township, and school district levels drives what taxes are due and payable on property," he stated. Griffin noted that Crow Wing County reduced its tax levy for 2014, as it has in each of the last four years, a 4.37% levy reduction over the period.

Griffin encouraged taxpayers to contact his office with any questions they may have about valuation and classification notices. "We are committed to providing excellent customer service and responding to all inquiries in an efficient, courteous and professional manner," he said. The office is located in Brainerd on the main floor of the Land Services Building, 322 Laurel Street. The main phone number is 218/824-1010 and the email address is assessor.office@crowwing.us.
